CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

If your garden does not contain "Glads" you are missing one floral treat. Their certainty to bloom, ease of culture, and lasting qualities as cut flowers are not surpassed by any.

No other summer blooms are as attractive and useful for decorations. Their large, perfect flowers, born on tall, graceful spikes often have twenty or more buds, all of which will blossom and give you a beautiful bouquet for ten days or more, if the wilted flowers are removed and fresh water given each day.

Plant in the sun (and not where the roots of trees or shrubbery sap the ground) four to five inches deep and three to eight inches apart in rows; use well rotted manure or good potato fertilizer thoroughly mixed with the soil.

When cutting flowers leave four to five leaves to help mature the new bulbs; dig when the leaves begin to turn lighter in color or when a brown skin shows on top of the new bulb; cut tops close to the bulbs and allow them to dry in the sun for a few days.

Break off the roots and old dried bulb before storing them in a dry, cool cellar (free from frost), in shallow boxes or trays not over six inches deep.

Save the small bubblets and plant (to increase your stock) early next spring, as you would peas —two inches deep; harvest same as blooming bulbs, plant again the next season and you will have some nice blooms, and the next year they will be at their best.
